

GRIGORY GRABOVOY
Methodology of healing Axiomatic principle of healing

Lecture 1

This lecture is about the basics of healing. where is the concept of "basis" is not a concept of the initial stage as healing and the concept of an axiomatic principle i.e. a series of axioms which will be used for that to understand how do processes occur at the information level and how these processes connected with cells with body with tests any parameters that characterize the organism not only the body but it is meant sensory level physical social and even political event-driven any level

i.e. when we talk about healing then you need to imply what is at the information level man collides with any events in this regard, the concept of "healing" the methodology that I give she will run into that that the axioms laid down here extend to all phenomena of life but initially this will relate specifically to healing considering that I give the system of Salvation I give specialization for this lecture course specialization is criteria means Consciousness by which you can differentiate i.e. to choose those parts of thought so to speak or those parts of the Perception of Consciousness of reality who could implement the act of Salvation simply put, it means if there is a need apply the Salvation technology then you should only on the basis of your Consciousness to do this i.e. do not use there we will assume some physical methods written or verbal and use only one's own Consciousness it's a pretty narrow technology actually and that means it consists of that that when I give lectures so if technology concerns let's assume some kind of personality status then this means that this status most revealed in the individual himself i.e. it is meant that these parameters are most pronounced in you from the point of view of the Macrosalvation system i.e. in the general order of things, so to speak This status is the most active in order to receive real Salvation under any external circumstances

Salvation is meant and including healing from disease for example if it is dangerous this means the use of clairvoyance technologies there, etc.

matter control up to what is called materialization or dematerialization and for example if we consider healing then here I already start to enter axiomatization principle then you need to know what healing is implies knowledge of the subject means about methodology therefore an element of healing is the development of the quality of clairvoyance the second element is the understanding of that that clairvoyance should be the ruler i.e. initially it is controlling and understanding is the second stage means controlling clairvoyance means not to record a negative diagnosis and change it at the primary access level already for the better except in cases when a person comes and tries to make a statement about a negative diagnosis, for example so in these cases it is natural to this information should be dismantled i.e. these are two different operating principles so here is the axiomatic principle for healing phenomena of things that happen in this World They

not stable for Consciousness But
resistant to Perception this is the first principle it consists of the following that the thing is as if it "is" i.e. you don't consider it that it is fixed somewhere and is always in one place she comes to you and then it turns out that for Consciousness it is unstable here is the stability fixation when you see a thing precisely at the stage of Perception you see as if stationary but if you think about it further then it turns out for example some object he can or if that tree is there coal burns ^{yes} i.e. it can change i.e. it turns out that Consciousness is prolonged if Perception it is like an element of fixation and statics of a thing then it turns out that Consciousness this is an element of interaction with a thing and here at these two angles under construction the first axiomatic principle of healing What

what you see in the form of a man or in the form of some disease is actually critical general process where the first stage is what is perceived and the second stage is that it changes

so that means treatment should be based on this by two parameters at once i.e. the norm should be as on the statics of Perception and at the level of all further changes this is important first axiomatic principle second principle Well, it's somewhat similar it turns out that canonical teaching but nevertheless it is better to know these principles so the second principle consists in the fact that

everything that is said here means me even if it is not widespread to the level of detailed analysis just heard already transforms this is a healing principle in itself every word must transform for the better and it is based on the properties of Consciousness reflected in that

every cell for example, it has its own niche of information in other words, it's as if she has her own Consciousness and it turns out that the reaction is cellular and the body's reaction it is a system of interaction built on that that every element including the organ let's assume including blood flow and everything else even cut hair

Means
each element

interacts as with the outside world and among themselves so here is the criterion of this interaction is the essence of the construction of the World which is based on that that each interaction system it may include a lot of elements so it is built in principle in this way

all future events
cover all past

i.e. and when you for example look at the element how to build interaction in general you should know this principle what does it mean if Well, let's say we take a certain hemisphere, yes and consider that here

all future events

then as soon as you this hemisphere turn it back all past events should fit in it so on this one too Well, you could call it "petal principle" the principle of normalization is built means which covers all phenomena of interaction related to the body because the criterion of the Norm it is clear what it is normal health and normal events but how to technologically identify the Norm this is the principle of technological identification of the Norm i.e. the second axiom refers to the same and how to identify technologically what does all this revolve around, to put it simply i.e. it turns out that what are the criteria for such a plan which can normalize or you could say canonize the situation third axiom it spreads on the criteria of Consciousness removed from you those. assume things it means there are some processes in the World they have the property similar to the concept of "Consciousness" i.e. if there is an animal moving there there is a building falling down or it means some action is happening then this is action has an information area i.e. reflection at the information level it turns out that Consciousness this is also information and that's information this is where we need to identify a very precise boundary or commonality it doesn't matter how it is better understood but nevertheless it is necessary to identify the criterion by which Consciousness controls these areas

i.e. in what way being in one place and knowing for example about things or without knowing about them through books, let's assume or through audio-video perception means in other words, without having access through the physical senses how to manage it then the answer is contained in the third axiom which I will talk about now turns out that each element of Consciousness has everything in itself which is connected with the whole external world and including with elements of Consciousness of other entities or elements of information regarding any events so here are the essences of the event differ in that what does it mean or what can be said and "in that" because every term I use it as a figurative structure

"in that" or "to that extent" ^{yes} "that" is in general terms and that's when I go into detail "in that" or for example "in that" I show that the spoken word already changing information not to mention the meaning of this word therefore the area of understanding of a certain event if this sounds very long and it may not be immediately voluminous in Perception then while listening to a lecture it will be clear what i'm talking about so when we perceive we receive that Perception divides the event in accordance with certain Laws and here the Law is revealed by which, ^{for example,} a person exists it is not destroyed, it lives, etc.

so here it is at the stage of Perception, the Law can be identified where does gradation occur between the elements of Consciousness elements included in Consciousness and elements of the external world about which we assume there is no information or inner peace for example , you have some feeling that maybe exists but finding it in yourself is a question how to find it and where is it located let's assume if we put the question this way you know all your feelings it seems or is it true but there is such a concept that there might still be something new over time so this is something new that has not yet formed where is it located the question arises divisions of Perception at the level of even unknown areas not to mention the feeling and speaking about other objects of the World or about other Worlds which must also be controlled we are talking about that what does the situation regarding the control system mean it extends to the meaning principle when you can control at the level of Perception as private processes, for example , some specific ones as well as more general processes

what if we perceive the general that particular is contained in it also perceiving the particular there is always something general in the particular i.e. in fact, if we consider The world in the form of, so to speak, some spheres there for example, with a radius of two centimeters it doesn't matter how then every event it has the same dimensional area i.e. actually the same diameter

what if we look at micro events then they are the same in volume as well as events of the whole world in terms of shape size can such an area in the world be considered in this way so taking this into account that every event contains every it turns out that Perception is element of this volume but in its dynamic part while Consciousness is static i.e. the organization of this event when we consider at the level of Infinite Deletion means the system of Perception and Consciousness

that Consciousness becomes Perception where the fabric is reproduced and that's exactly it element of transition to tissue structure i.e. to control the fabric you need to know this whole chain so when are you already passing through the structure of knowledge you are already in control i.e. the meaning there is a little different what's the point of learning first and then manage

The thing is that control occurs at every stage here is the target management i.e. precise control achieved when the technology is known at all stages before entering the cell so based on these three axioms it means I'm just giving the technology further use of this axiomatic principle
